More about Biology Projects For Class 12Q: Haskell: In Type class instance how can I add another type to the instance? I have made a new type like: data TypeBuilder = TypeBuilder { mType :: String, mStackSize :: Int, mNext :: StackBuilder } deriving Show And now I need to make a new instance that I can call with any type that I want. (like: TypeBuilder String) instance (Type t) => TypeBuilder t where TypeBuilder t mType mStackSize mNext = t I'm not sure what do to, in the last line of the type instance, where I can put a type t, that I want that TypeBuilder t mType mStackSize mNext to type? How can I do this? A: Here are some ways: 1) You can derive a new type class that has a type-level version of a TypeBuilder. You can then use the type class like this: data TypeBuilder = TypeBuilder { mType :: String, mStackSize :: Int, mNext :: StackBuilder } deriving Show class TypeBuilder t => TypeBuilderInstance t instance TypeBuilderInstance TypeBuilder 2) A more practical e79caf774b
